of our corporate Mentees reported that our program helped them balance personal and professional life.

of our corporate Mentees said they felt considerably more happier at work after our program.

of our corporate Mentors reported that joining our program helped them expand their own knowledge, too.

SPONSOR MENTEES

Give your female employees the opportunity to get a Mentor outside of your organisation and sponsor their place on our six-week program. According to their individual applications, Mentees will be matched with Mentors with experience in their industry or profession and can also be experienced in specific niches. Mentors can also be executive coaches and can assist with confidence, leadership, career acceleration, problem-solving and much more. Mentor Her's program has helped hundreds of women to become clearer in their career path, develop their skills within their job roles, regain confidence and become happier at work.

Included in our Sponsor Mentee packages is the opportunity to have a workshop of your choice hosted in your organization by leading experts that comprise our executive team. Choose from a range of topics centered around our mission to help women Begin, Grow, Have Both and Lead. From the imposter syndrome to developing a meaningful career framework, improving leadership skills and balancing motherhood with professional life.

WHAT WILL YOUR FEMALE EMPLOYEES GAIN?

Mentor Her's six week program is far more than just a mentorship program. It's a chance for her to gain a fresh connection and a new perspective about her career and where it's going in her industry. It's an opportunity to join a community of women in a safe space where she can discuss topics that are exclusively related to women's health. It's a program designed around career acceleration, with the added bonus of weekly material to structure the conversation. It's access to an online cache of motivational Q&As and workshops alongside invitations to in-person events to inspire and connect with other ambitious women.

On our program, Mentees are matched with a Mentor in their industry or profession. If you have female executives that are willing to donate some of their time (6 hours over the course of 6 weeks) as Mentors, we can add an extra button on our application forms: "Match with someone in my company". Otherwise, women will get a highly skilled Mentor that has worked in their profession or industry, or a coach that has the skills to guide Mentees through leadership, career acceleration, branding and much, much more- depending on the Mentee's needs.

WHO WILL MENTOR YOUR EMPLOYEES?

The Mentors that join Mentor Her come from all around the world, inspired by a heartfelt altruism and need to help a woman come up the ladder behind them. Mentors do not pay to come on our program and we do not pay our Mentors, instead we offer a range of non-monetary benefits that help to amplify the Mentor's network, as much as we help Mentees to do the same. All our Mentors are vetted by our team and hold a range of positions across the corporate and business world. From high-level C-Suite Executives in multinational organisations, to certified coaches that deal with leadership or motherhood.

Once your company purchases a package with us, we'll send you our Mentee Application link from our website and we'll organise a phone call to set up your complimentary women empowerment workshops that can be hosted for all your employees online or in person. Your Mentees can choose which program they would like to join depending on the start date and fill in their application. The application asks Mentees to identify who they are and where they want to be in the next five years. From there, we'll match them with someone who we feel could highly benefit their career on our program. All of our applications remain in total confidentiality between us and our Mentees and we don't pass this information along to anybody, including Mentors. Having developed a 98% effective matching rate over the course of the last two years, Mentor Her's team knows each of our Mentors personally and knows where their strengths lie when it comes to sharing their knowledge with a Mentee.

If your organisation has specific needs for your employees, or wants to ensure we do not match Mentees with Mentors in competitive companies, you can simply call our team and we will make a note on Mentee applications that come from within your company.

GET STARTED:

Choose your package to Sponsor 20/50/100 Mentees on our six week program and we will send an invoice confirming your selection.

Let your employees know about our start dates throughout the year. They can join our program at anytime, they just have to let us know they are part of your company in their application.

Before the start of every program, we'll confirm the list of women who have signed up to our six week program from your company.

While your employees get full access to our program as Mentees, your company can now book 2 or more workshops hosted by Mentor Her's executive team by reviewing our workshop topics and choosing your preferred host. These can be hosted in- person or online.

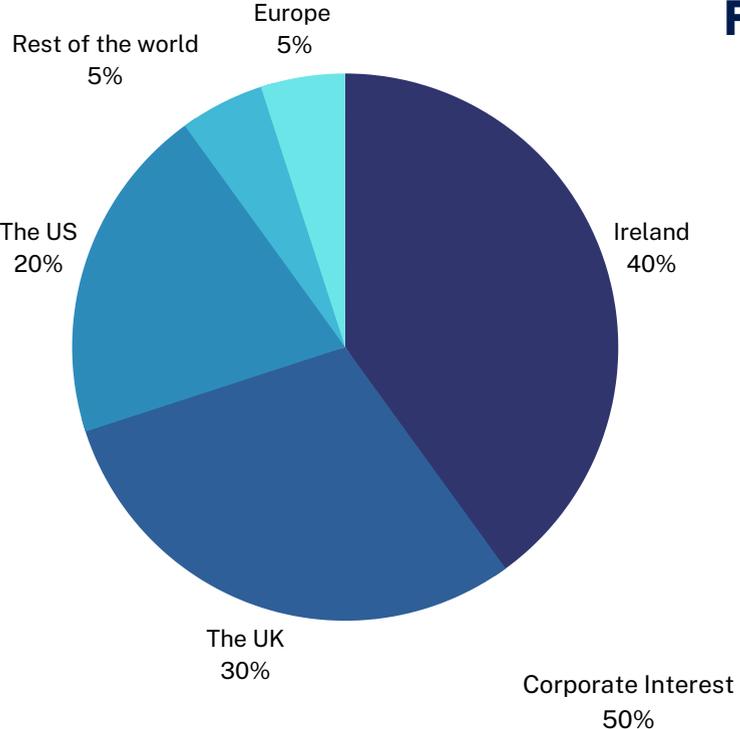

We'll deliver a goodybox to your HR department as a thank you and give you a program pack with information about upcoming events that your team is invited to attend.
